The jury retired at 5 o clock. It stood ten for sums of damages from $25,000 up to the full $50,000 anked. The other two thought $10,000 was all the blight Miss Georgine's maiden affection had suffered.

At 10 o'clock they came to an agreement cat $25,000. The friends of the plaintiff gathered around her and, woman-like, expressed their joy by crying while she wept on the shoulder of her mother.

Scaulit's counsel, Mr. Yeaman, got twenty days in which to prepare an appeal, and the case will go through all the courts. Judge Pittsimous decreed that Schultz should pay an extra $1,000 to the lawyers for fair that nin Georgine.

Miss Wolters declined to see a reporter to-ar, but her father was beaming with hap-frees and said she was feeling happy, too.
